

Bounded subset sum

Given a set of n real numbers, a real number t , and an integer k , how quickly can you determine whether there exists a k -element subset of the set that sums to at most t ?